Rapid tests for COVID-19 screening in the workplace

The Government of Canada is launching new efforts to increase the availability of rapid test kits for Canadian workers.

Specifically, we are working with industry associations, non-profit and other organizations to discuss their needs and to ensure timely access to these tests for screening purposes. This approach supports screening for high-contact workers in critical sectors.

Get free rapid tests for your employees

This initiative complements provincial and territorial activities. Its goal is to:

- increase rapid test availability as a screening tool for Canadian workers
- help Canadian organizations better protect their employees and customers
- provide another tool to reduce community transmission and keep the economy running

The use of rapid tests as a screening tool is another layer of protection. It's not a substitute for other public health measures, such as mask wearing, hand hygiene, physical distancing, proper ventilation and using the COVID Alert app.

Learn why screening is important and how you can start your own workplace screening program.
